

EDITOR'S ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Now that my term as JAM Editor has come to a close, I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to all those who took time from their busy schedules to help me with the very large effort involved in publishing this JOURNAL. Special thanks go to John Spengler, my Assistant Editor, who worked tirelessly during the past year and one-half and relieved me of numerous responsibilities. I also wish to especially thank the Associate Editors and particularly the Guest Reviewers for their assistance. It would have been impossible for our Associate Editors to perform their review function without this Guest Reviewer support, as the volume of JAM submittals has substantially increased annually. Space prohibits my thanking all these and other individuals by name. Let me simply say thank you one and all for your very valuable contributions.
